Using Britannica is so useful and very easy to use. It is very helpful when you want to know something simple about the topic that you are interested in. It give you basic information and then into more complex information in your topic which is very good as well. Your topic should mostly involve history or important events that has happened globally .For example I had a big research project due for social studies and my topic was "The Bilingual Education Act Of 1968" I learned very basic and important information. When I was reading there were more events that caused this act as wll which I also researched for like the Lau vs Nichols case.
